Dear Admissions Committee:

Kassandra Cisneros is an applicant for the UTRGV Law School Preparation Institute. I am delighted to offer this enthusiastic recommendation on her behalf.

I first met Ms. Cisneros in Juvenile Court. At just 18 years old, she had the knowledge and expertise that made me believe she had been in the legal realm for decades. She was able to handle dozens of clients with eloquence, while simultaneously assisting demanding attorneys with anything they needed. Her hands on work experience for a criminal defense attorney has given her a practical insight many do not get until long after their law school days are over. Throughout my time knowing Ms. Cisneros, she has remained steadfast in her commitment to becoming an attorney.

Aside from her practical work experience, Ms. Cisneros is bright, thoughtful, and compassionate. She has the attributes most attorneys only wish they had. And yet, she remains humble. Ms. Cisneros analyzes situations with poise and compassion, and she is endowed with the impressive gift of eliciting trust and respect from others. Not only does she have a strong understanding of the legal system, but she is able speak to people from all walks of life.

Ms. Cisneros has an intimate understanding, both academic and practical, that spans multiple disciplines. This fact is iterated by her impressive resume—both academic and professional. With a 3.89 GPA, she is on the fast-track to being a strong law school candidate. Admission to the Institute would only ensure her success with the rigor of law school.

I have every confidence that Ms. Cisneros will be a significant asset to the UTRGV Law School Preparation Institute; even further, I have no doubt in my mind that she will thrive in law school, and professionally as an attorney. Congratulations on having attracted such a talented candidate.

Very truly yours,
